

March has been another busy month at school with parent-teacher meetings, forest school, a visit from the Fire Service to talk about safety, 'the best snow day ever!' with snowmen being made in the school field, and a very enjoyable World Book Day. Children and staff made a great effort to arrive at school in amazing book-related costumes. In the morning Ks2 were able to join in with other schools for an interesting live video with Michael Morpurgo talking to them about his book The War Horse, and in the afternoon the children were treated to the staff reading to them from their favourite books.

There has been a workshop from the author Andy Seed, who filled the children with enthusiasm to write their own stories.

The school choir represented the school by joining Rev. Yann and the congregation at All Saints Church for the Sunday service and singing their favourite worship song, afterwards the choir met the Bishop of Guildford.

During half term, work began on the Spiritual Garden, which is now almost finished and will be ready for use next term. A huge thank you to all involved in making this beautiful garden area.

The children are busy rehearsing for their Easter productions before their Easter holidays start on March 31st.

The school still need additional staff during the lunchtime period. If you are looking for a part time job and can assist as a midday supervisor, please contact Wendy or Kelly:
